

Ronald McDonald House Charities® of the Southwest Scholarship Program

The scholarship program of Ronald McDonald House Charities® (RMHC) of the Southwest has established scholarships honoring two women who have had a significant impact on RMHC of the Southwest during their longtime service to the organization.

Janice Flemmons, Chief Financial Officer, retired in 2016 after 15 years. She was instrumental in establishing the scholarship that bears her name, which has provided over $12,000 to area high school students who have been impacted by RMHC whether through

In 2020, after nearly 14 years of service Dina Jeffries, President and CEO left the organization. The Dina Jeffries Leadership Scholarship was established in honor of her exceptional leadership and unconditional commitment to Keeping families close.

In keeping with the RMHC® Scholars guidelines, each scholarship is to be awarded to a graduating high school senior, but will have its own unique criteria as described below.
